

QUIET TRADING IN CLOSING MARKET

Encouraging Signs of Betterment in Both Financial and Industrial Situation

New York, July 30.—There was little change in prices of today's closing stock market; excepting the Virginia-Carolina Chemical shares, which broke abruptly in the second hour. The common dropped nearly 4 points and the preferred over 11. Otherwise it was a case of frenzied juggling. Trading was on a very diminutive scale, but what that list lacked in breadth and volume of business it more than made up in strength. Some irregularity was exhibited at the outset, for, in spite of the continued strength of the railroads, certain securities displayed a declining tendency. There were no wide recessions, and before the end of the first hour most of the ground lost was retrieved. The subsequent lurch of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical stocks, however, forced some to influence a further enlargement of operations, but prices were held relatively steady up to the closing.

In so far as the surface movement was concerned, the week's market offers little essential change in speculative conditions. Price fluctuations continued to be irregular and confused. That is to say, while there was considerable strengthening in some quarters in others unmistakable weakness cropped out. The market seems to still have many vulnerable spots in the industrial division, which, after all, is entirely a natural outcome of the belligerent and reckless speculation during the war period and immediately thereafter. On the other hand, most of the representative railroad shares appear to have found a stable basis. At least suggest the worst side of the transportation question has not only been discounted, but is also now in a measure a thing of the past.

Efforts to diagnose the market situation from the day to day price variations, happenings and circumstances is certain to lead to endless mental confusion and befogging of the perspective. When, however, the pulse and temperature of the market are taken together with the element of time, better results are certain to be obtained. During the week there were numerous developments from which considerable satisfaction was obtainable and which, in a long run, foreshadow a much better state of things. Because their importance is apparently lessened by the speculative element, the market should not in the last resort claim their significance as future factors.

Considerable diversity prevails in the opinion of recognized experts as to whether the cross-currents reflect accumulation or distribution of stocks. Individual analysis of the week's conflicting movements would indicate a strong argument. That is to say, there was unmistakable accumulation of the better-grade stocks, the representative stocks, while among many of the recognized speculative securities there was conspicuous and undeniable testimony of distribution. In the latter case this represented further spread of interest of interests who either overpaid or paid too much and did not possess the resources for maintaining the untenable position voluntarily or involuntarily, was assumed. Much of this wreckage is now being brought to the surface, however, deals more with the past than the forecasting future condition of the shredded, yet most conservative of market critics some weeks ago called attention to what he asserted was the unique-dated pool position. In his deduction he pointed out there could be no permanent change in the market position until the weaker element was eliminated. The disappearance of the industrial specialties within the last few nights fully corroborates his statement. The utter senselessness of these speculative combinations bucking an almost irresistible tide.

While there is still much to be done in the way of improvement in the business, financial and industrial situation, there are to be found many gratifying signs of encouragement, all of which combined indicate a rapidly approaching turn in the trend of affairs. The most essential development in this connection is the rapid strengthening of the banking position with the corresponding easement of the money markets. The extreme low call rate of the week was, of course, more superficial than real, but the significant side was easily to be found in the rising barometer of the bond market.

PENNSY FIRMNESS LOCAL FEATURE

Calm Reception of Week's Adverse Events Proved Market Shock-Proof

The week closed with dull but strong local market. Pennsylvania Railroad and Electric Storage Battery were the firm features. Contingent upon the return of Pennsylvania sent that stock to 32, the high price of the week. Electric Storage Battery, at the same time, made a new figure of 107. There were small dealings in Keystone Telephone, Philadelphia Electric Tractor and West Jersey and Sonics without much change in price position.

While nothing much in particular was accomplished, there was still a great deal of satisfaction to be derived from the conduct of the week's local market. It proved, in all events, to be entirely shock-proof and besides, what is more important, thoroughly liquidated. The regrettable dispersion of the well-known banking and insurance firm of Chandler Brothers & Co. and Mayor Moore's veto of the gas ordinance in other towns would have been a signal for a wholesale sanguineous security values. Both events were minor or less important and consequently exerted little influence on setting the adverse conditions was the declaration of the Pennsylvania Railroad quarterly dividend, giving the practical assurance of the main retaining of the 1 per cent. dividend rate.

Much more significance was to be attached to the action of the Pennsylvania directors than the mere fact of the dividend declaration. It could be accepted as a strain in the wind situation, particularly in view of the transposition problem. It was the first evidence of unsatisfactory results had been obtained in gaining the upper hand of the heretofore ever-mounting operating cost. It was likewise an acceptable indication of brighter things ahead. Because of its many outstretching arteries the Pennsylvania system virtually touches every basic industry from New England down to the Mississippi River. The future necessities of widely diversified traffic must surely have been convincingly promising, or else the board by their known conservatism would not have decided to dip further into the convenient surplus. There was surely some improvement though it may not be perceptible to the inexperienced eye.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS

Business of Holiday Character and Attendance Small—Few Changes in Oils

New York, July 30.—Trading on the exchange of today's closing stock market, excepting the Virginia-Carolina Chemical shares, which broke abruptly in the second hour. The common dropped nearly 4 points and the preferred over 11. Otherwise it was a case of frenzied juggling. Trading was on a very diminutive scale, but what that list lacked in breadth and volume of business it more than made up in strength. Some irregularity was exhibited at the outset, for, in spite of the continued strength of the railroads, certain securities displayed a declining tendency.

There were no wide recessions, and before the end of the first hour most of the ground lost was retrieved. The subsequent lurch of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical stocks, however, forced some to influence a further enlargement of operations, but prices were held relatively steadily up to the closing.

In so far as the surface movement was concerned, the week's market offers little essential change in speculative conditions. Price fluctuations continued to be irregular and confused. That is to say, while there was considerable strengthening in some quarters in others unmistakable weakness cropped out. The market seems to still have many vulnerable spots in the industrial division, which, after all, is entirely a natural outcome of the belligerent and reckless speculation during the war period and immediately thereafter. On the other hand, most of the representative railroad shares appear to have found a stable basis. At least suggest the worst side of the transportation question has not only been discounted, but is also now in a measure a thing of the past.

Efforts to diagnose the market situation from the day to day price variations, happenings and circumstances is certain to lead to endless mental confusion and befogging of the perspective. When, however, the pulse and temperature of the market are taken together with the element of time, better results are certain to be obtained. During the week there were numerous developments from which considerable satisfaction was obtainable and which, in a long run, foreshadow a much better state of things. Because their importance is apparently lessened by the speculative element, the market should not in the last resort claim their significance as future factors.

Considerable diversity prevails in the opinion of recognized experts as to whether the cross-currents reflect accumulation or distribution of stocks. Individual analysis of the week's conflicting movements would indicate a strong argument. That is to say, there was unmistakable accumulation of the better-grade stocks, the representative stocks, while among many of the recognized speculative securities there was conspicuous and undeniable testimony of distribution. In the latter case this represented further spread of interest of interests who either overpaid or paid too much and did not possess the resources for maintaining the untenable position voluntarily or involuntarily, was assumed. Much of this wreckage is now being brought to the surface, however, deals more with the past than the forecasting future condition of the shredded, yet most conservative of market critics some weeks ago called attention to what he asserted was the unique-dated pool position. In his deduction he pointed out there could be no permanent change in the market position until the weaker element was eliminated. The disappearance of the industrial specialties within the last few nights fully corroborates his statement. The utter senselessness of these speculative combinations bucking an almost irresistible tide.

While there is still much to be done in the way of improvement in the business, financial and industrial situation, there are to be found many gratifying signs of encouragement, all of which combined indicate a rapidly approaching turn in the trend of affairs. The most essential development in this connection is the rapid strengthening of the banking position with the corresponding easement of the money markets. The extreme low call rate of the week was, of course, more superficial than real, but the significant side was easily to be found in the rising barometer of the bond market.

Total sales, 143,500 shares, compared with 41,700 shares yesterday. Thus far this week, 2,387,500.

Philadelphia Stocks

Philadelphia Markets

Commodity Markets

TRADERS ON CURB WITHOUT ORDERS

New York Bond Sales

New York, July 30.—Trading on the exchange of today's closing stock market, excepting the Virginia-Carolina Chemical shares, which broke abruptly in the second hour. The common dropped nearly 4 points and the preferred over 11. Otherwise it was a case of frenzied juggling. Trading was on a very diminutive scale, but what that list lacked in breadth and volume of business it more than made up in strength. Some irregularity was exhibited at the outset, for, in spite of the continued strength of the railroads, certain securities displayed a declining tendency.

There were no wide recessions, and before the end of the first hour most of the ground lost was retrieved. The subsequent lurch of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical stocks, however, forced some to influence a further enlargement of operations, but prices were held relatively steadily up to the closing.

In so far as the surface movement was concerned, the week's market offers little essential change in speculative conditions. Price fluctuations continued to be irregular and confused. That is to say, while there was considerable strengthening in some quarters in others unmistakable weakness cropped out. The market seems to still have many vulnerable spots in the industrial division, which, after all, is entirely a natural outcome of the belligerent and reckless speculation during the war period and immediately thereafter. On the other hand, most of the representative railroad shares appear to have found a stable basis. At least suggest the worst side of the transportation question has not only been discounted, but is also now in a measure a thing of the past.

Efforts to diagnose the market situation from the day to day price variations, happenings and circumstances is certain to lead to endless mental confusion and befogging of the perspective. When, however, the pulse and temperature of the market are taken together with the element of time, better results are certain to be obtained. During the week there were numerous developments from which considerable satisfaction was obtainable and which, in a long run, foreshadow a much better state of things. Because their importance is apparently lessened by the speculative element, the market should not in the last resort claim their significance as future factors.

Considerable diversity prevails in the opinion of recognized experts as to whether the cross-currents reflect accumulation or distribution of stocks. Individual analysis of the week's conflicting movements would indicate a strong argument. That is to say, there was unmistakable accumulation of the better-grade stocks, the representative stocks, while among many of the recognized speculative securities there was conspicuous and undeniable testimony of distribution. In the latter case this represented further spread of interest of interests who either overpaid or paid too much and did not possess the resources for maintaining the untenable position voluntarily or involuntarily, was assumed. Much of this wreckage is now being brought to the surface, however, deals more with the past than the forecasting future condition of the shredded, yet most conservative of market critics some weeks ago called attention to what he asserted was the unique-dated pool position. In his deduction he pointed out there could be no permanent change in the market position until the weaker element was eliminated. The disappearance of the industrial specialties within the last few nights fully corroborates his statement. The utter senselessness of these speculative combinations bucking an almost irresistible tide.

While there is still much to be done in the way of improvement in the business, financial and industrial situation, there are to be found many gratifying signs of encouragement, all of which combined indicate a rapidly approaching turn in the trend of affairs. The most essential development in this connection is the rapid strengthening of the banking position with the corresponding easement of the money markets. The extreme low call rate of the week was, of course, more superficial than real, but the significant side was easily to be found in the rising barometer of the bond market.

Total sales, 143,500 shares, compared with 41,700 shares yesterday. Thus far this week, 2,387,500.

Philadelphia Stocks

Philadelphia Markets

Commodity Markets

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS

Business of Holiday Character and Attendance Small—Few Changes in Oils

New York, July 30.—Trading on the exchange of today's closing stock market, excepting the Virginia-Carolina Chemical shares, which broke abruptly in the second hour. The common dropped nearly 4 points and the preferred over 11. Otherwise it was a case of frenzied juggling. Trading was on a very diminutive scale, but what that list lacked in breadth and volume of business it more than made up in strength. Some irregularity was exhibited at the outset, for, in spite of the continued strength of the railroads, certain securities displayed a declining tendency.

There were no wide recessions, and before the end of the first hour most of the ground lost was retrieved. The subsequent lurch of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical stocks, however, forced some to influence a further enlargement of operations, but prices were held relatively steadily up to the closing.

In so far as the surface movement was concerned, the week's market offers little essential change in speculative conditions. Price fluctuations continued to be irregular and confused. That is to say, while there was considerable strengthening in some quarters in others unmistakable weakness cropped out. The market seems to still have many vulnerable spots in the industrial division, which, after all, is entirely a natural outcome of the belligerent and reckless speculation during the war period and immediately thereafter. On the other hand, most of the representative railroad shares appear to have found a stable basis. At least suggest the worst side of the transportation question has not only been discounted, but is also now in a measure a thing of the past.

Efforts to diagnose the market situation from the day to day price variations, happenings and circumstances is certain to lead to endless mental confusion and befogging of the perspective. When, however, the pulse and temperature of the market are taken together with the element of time, better results are certain to be obtained. During the week there were numerous developments from which considerable satisfaction was obtainable and which, in a long run, foreshadow a much better state of things. Because their importance is apparently lessened by the speculative element, the market should not in the last resort claim their significance as future factors.

Considerable diversity prevails in the opinion of recognized experts as to whether the cross-currents reflect accumulation or distribution of stocks. Individual analysis of the week's conflicting movements would indicate a strong argument. That is to say, there was unmistakable accumulation of the better-grade stocks, the representative stocks, while among many of the recognized speculative securities there was conspicuous and undeniable testimony of distribution. In the latter case this represented further spread of interest of interests who either overpaid or paid too much and did not possess the resources for maintaining the untenable position voluntarily or involuntarily, was assumed. Much of this wreckage is now being brought to the surface, however, deals more with the past than the forecasting future condition of the shredded, yet most conservative of market critics some weeks ago called attention to what he asserted was the unique-dated pool position. In his deduction he pointed out there could be no permanent change in the market position until the weaker element was eliminated. The disappearance of the industrial specialties within the last few nights fully corroborates his statement. The utter senselessness of these speculative combinations bucking an almost irresistible tide.

While there is still much to be done in the way of improvement in the business, financial and industrial situation, there are to be found many gratifying signs of encouragement, all of which combined indicate a rapidly approaching turn in the trend of affairs. The most essential development in this connection is the rapid strengthening of the banking position with the corresponding easement of the money markets. The extreme low call rate of the week was, of course, more superficial than real, but the significant side was easily to be found in the rising barometer of the bond market.

Total sales, 143,500 shares, compared with 41,700 shares yesterday. Thus far this week, 2,387,500.

Philadelphia Stocks

Philadelphia Markets

Commodity Markets

Lawrence E. Brown & Co.
CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS
1650 REAL ESTATE TRUST BLDG.
Investigate and adjust corporation and partnership accounts and prepare income and tax returns.

H.L. Smith & Co.
INVESTMENT SECURITIES
1009 Land Title Bldg. Spruce 6721-2

C. S. Patton & Co.
SALES & CREDITORS
BANKERS
SAILER & STEVENS
Bonds stocks bought and sold
Members Phila. Stock Exchange

FINANCIAL

NOTICE TO HOLDERS ROCKHILL COAL AND IRON CO. FIRST AND COLLATERAL TRUST TRUST MORTGAGE
Under the Stockholders' provisions of the mortgage, sealed promissory note received on May 3, 1921, at the amount of $10,000, for the payment of premiums for insurance and taxes, and the amount of interest on the principal sum, is due to the Trustee
on May 3, 1922, at the amount of $10,100.
The amount of interest is to be paid at the rate of 6% per annum, plus 1% for expenses.

THE PENNSYLVANIA COMPANY
for Insurance on Lives and Gravitas Annuities Trustee, for the sale of the Pennsylvania Company Annuities Trust Tenders for Insurance on Lives and Gravitas
Annuities Trustee, for the sinking fund
Rockhill Coal and Iron Co.

TEMPLE COAL CO. First and Collateral Trust Mortg. $2,500 Sinking Fund Gold Under provisions of the mortgage, to be received until 5 P.M., Aug. 1, 1921, for the amount of $2,500,000, on the principal sum, plus 1% for expenses
and interest, of 6% per annum, plus 1%
for expenses.

THE PENNSYLVANIA COMPANY
for Insurance on Lives and Gravitas
Annuities Trustee, for the sinking fund
Rockhill Coal and Iron Co.

NOTICE—FREDERICK C. DORAN 6%

Sealed note of record received at the office of the Trustee until 5 P.M., Aug. 1, 1921, for the sale of $25,000,000 on the principal sum, plus 1% for expenses
and interest, of 6% per annum, plus 1%
for expenses.

NOTICE—FIRST-TRUST GOLD BONDS
Sealed note of record received at the office of the Trustee until 5 P.M., Aug. 1, 1921, for the sale of $25,000,000 on the principal sum, plus 1% for expenses
and interest, of 6% per annum, plus 1%
for expenses.

NOTICE—EDMUND WILLIAMS
Dividends

TRADESMAN NATIONAL BANK
Philadelphia July 29, 1921.
The Board of Directors has this day declared the regular quarterly dividend of two and one-half dollars ($2.50) per share and an extra dividend of one-half dollar per share, to be paid on Aug. 1, 1921, at the rate of 6% per annum, plus 1% for expenses and interest.

LEE RUBER & TIRE CORPORATION
New York, July 29, 1921.
The Directors have this day declared the regular quarterly dividend of one-half dollar per share, to be paid on Aug. 1, 1921, at the rate of 6% per annum, plus 1% for expenses.

Proposals

SEALED PROPOSALS WILL BE RE-CEIVED AT THE OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF INSURANCE, STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA, AT AL-LEGHENY PARK, PITTSBURGH, PA., UNTIL AUGUST 1, 1921,

Under the provisions of the mortgage, to be received until 5 P.M., Aug. 1, 1921, at the amount of $10,000,000 on the principal sum, plus 1% for expenses.

Plans, specifications and bidders' proposals can be seen at the office of the Superintendent of Insurance, Allegheny Park, Pittsburgh, Pa., or at the office of the architect.

Additional copies may be obtained by depositing the sum of Twenty-five ($25.00) per copy at the office of the Superintendent of Insurance, Allegheny Park, Pittsburgh, Pa., or at the close of business August 1, 1921.

EDMUND WILLIAMS

RAILROAD EARNINGS
DENVER AND RIO GRANDE

BOND CLEARINGS SHRINK

JULY EXCHANGES SHOW CONTRACTION OF 31.86 PER CENT AND 24.5 PER CENT FOR 7 MONTHS

With the exception of February, the volume of Philadelphia Bank Clearings for July was smallest for any single month since April, 1919. Compared with last year, the exchanges showed a shrinkage of 31.86 per cent.

July Exchanges Show Contraction
of 31.86 Per Cent and 24.5 Per Cent for 7 Months